Yukon Quest Day 12 Update – Rookie Becomes New Champion

February 16, 2011 (Fairbanks, Alaska) On February 15th, eleven days after the race start in Whitehorse, Yukon, teams arrived at the Yukon Quest Finish Line in Fairbanks, Alaska.

The Yukon Quest has a new Champion - Rookie Dallas Seavey arrived that the Finish Line in Fairbanks at 11:05 p.m. AKST. It was certainly a race to the finish. 2009 Yukon Quest Champion Sebastian Schnuelle arrived with a very energetic team only 33 minutes behind to take second position.

Ken Anderson arrived in third position at 1:36 a.m. Wednesday. Anderson takes home the four ounces of gold, given to the first team to make it into Dawson City and to cross the finish line. In fourth position, Brent Sass arrived at 6:14 a.m.

Mushers Kelley Griffin and Allen Moore left Two Rivers this morning and are en route to the Finish Line.

Jodi Bailey, Dave Dalton and Mike Ellis are preparing to depart Central for their push over Eagle Summit.

And the Fab-Five back-of-the-pack have all arrived in Circle. Tamara Rose, Jerry Joinson, and Kyla Durham have rested and departed Circle and are making their way to the Central Checkpoint.
